RWorksheet_noblezada#1

Necel Kate Noblezada

2024-09-04

1.

```
age=c(34, 28, 22, 36, 27, 18, 52, 39, 42, 29, 35, 31, 27, 22, 37, 34, 19, 20, 57, 49, 50, 37, 46, 25, 1 #a. How many data points? # 34 data points
length(age)
[1] 34
#2.
reciprocal<-1/age reciprocal
[1] 0.02941176 0.03571429 0.04545455 0.02777778 0.03703704 0.05555556
[7] 0.01923077 0.02564103 0.02380952 0.03448276 0.02857143 0.03225806
[13] 0.03703704 0.04545455 0.02702703 0.02941176 0.05263158 0.05000000
[19] 0.01754386 0.02040816 0.02000000 0.02702703 0.02173913 0.04000000
[25] 0.05882353 0.02702703 0.02380952 0.01886792 0.02439024 0.01960784
[31] 0.02857143 0.04166667 0.03030303 0.02439024
#3. #What happen to the new_age? #
new_age <- c(age, 0, age)</pre> new_age
[1] 34 28 22 36 27 18 52 39 42 29 35 31 27 22 37 34 19 20 57 49 50 37 46 25 17
[26] 37 42 53 41 51 35 24 33 41  0 34 28 22 36 27 18 52 39 42 29 35 31 27 22 37
[51] 34 19 20 57 49 50 37 46 25 17 37 42 53 41 51 35 24 33 41
#4.
sort(age)
[1] 17 18 19 20 22 22 24 25 27 27 28 29 31 33 34 34 35 35 36 37 37 37 39 41 41
[26] 42 42 46 49 50 51 52 53 57
#5.
min(age)
[1] 17
max(age)
```

```
[1] 57
#6.
data<-c(2.4, 2.8, 2.1, 2.5, 2.4, 2.2, 2.5, 2.3, 2.5, 2.3, 2.4, 2.7)
#a. How many data points? # 12 data points
length(data)
[1] 12
#7.
new_vector <- data</pre> data * 2
[1] 4.8 5.6 4.2 5.0 4.8 4.4 5.0 4.6 5.0 4.6 4.8 5.4
#What happen to the data? # the data vector results in a new vector where each element is twice the original value.
8.1
a \le seq(1:100)
8.2
1 < - seq(20,60)
8.3
i \leftarrow mean(20,60)
8.4
k \le sum(51:91)
8.5
t <- seq(1:1000)
#a. How many data points from 8.1 to 8.4? # 143 data points length1 <- length(a)</pre> length2 <- length(1)</pre> length3 <- length(i)</pre> length4 <- length(k)</pre> sum (length1+length2+length3+length4)
[1] 143
#b.Write the R code and its output from 8.1 to 8.4.
a \leftarrow seq(1:100)
1 \leftarrow seq(20,60)
i \leftarrow mean(20,60)
k \leftarrow sum(51:91)
#c. For 8.5 find only maximum data points until 10.
t <- 1:1000
answer \leftarrow \max(t[t \leftarrow 10]) answer
```

```
[1] 10
#9.
Filter(function(i) { all(i %% c(3,5,7) != 0) }, seq(100))
   [1] 1 2 4 8 11 13 16 17 19 22 23 26 29 31 32 34 37 38 41 43 44 46 47 52 53
[26] 58 59 61 62 64 67 68 71 73 74 76 79 82 83 86 88 89 92 94 97
#10.
rev(seq(1:100))
                            96
                                                          89
                                                                                    83
     [1] 100 99
                   98
                       97
                                95
                                    94
                                         93
                                             92
                                                 91
                                                      90
                                                              88
                                                                  87
                                                                       86
                                                                           85
                                                                               84
##
    Γ197
          82
               81
                   80
                       79
                            78
                                77
                                    76
                                         75
                                             74
                                                 73
                                                      72
                                                          71
                                                              70
                                                                  69
                                                                       68
                                                                           67
                                                                               66
                                                                                    65
##
               63
                                                      54
                                                                                48
                                                                                    47
    [37]
          64
                   62
                       61
                            60
                                59
                                    58
                                         57
                                             56
                                                 55
                                                          53
                                                              52
                                                                  51
                                                                       50
                                                                           49
##
    [55]
          46
               45
                   44
                       43
                            42
                                41
                                    40
                                         39
                                             38
                                                 37
                                                      36
                                                          35
                                                              34
                                                                  33
                                                                       32
                                                                           31
                                                                                30
                                                                                    29
##
    [73]
          28
               27
                   26
                       25
                            24
                                23
                                    22 20 19
                                         21
                                                      18
                                                          17
                                                              16
                                                                  15
                                                                      14
                                                                           13
                                                                               12
                                                                                    11
##
    [91]
          10 9
                    8
                        7
                             6
                                 5
                                     4
                                          3
                                              2
                                                  1
#11.
upper_limit <- 25
num <- 1:(upper_limit - 1)</pre>
multiples <- num[num \frac{1}{2} 3 == 0 | num \frac{1}{2} 5 == 0] multiples
[1] 3 5 6 9 10 12 15 18 20 21 24
#a. How many data points from 10 to 11? # 11 data points length(multiples)
[1] 11
#b. Write the R code and its output from 10 and 11. #
#12.
```